

The UCLA Department of English,
Department of African American Studies and the Ralph J. Bunche Center for African American Studies invite you to a job talk

by

Erica Edwards
University of California, Riverside

“How Very American’: African American Literature and the Long War on Terror.”

Erica R. Edwards is Associate Professor of English at the University of California, Riverside and the author of Charisma and the Fictions of Black Leadership (University of Minnesota Press, 2012), which was awarded the Modern Language Association’s William Sanders Scarborough Prize. Her work on African American literature, politics, and gender critique has appeared in journals such as differences, Callaloo, American Quarterly, American Literary History, and Black Camera. She is currently writing a book about African American literature and the War on Terror and editing Keywords for African American Studies for NYU Press.

Friday, April 21, 2017
1:00 p.m.
193 Humanities (Faculty Commons)